"SERVING" SECURITY TO LAW OFFICES

How one Philadelphia area law office handles security at its three locations.

Case Study

For over 13-years, CAV Solutions in Marlton, New Jersey, has been installing electronic equipment such as automation, communications, home theaters, IT and security in the Philadelphia and surrounding Tri-State area. When Semanoff Ormsby Greenberg and Torchia, LLC (SOGT Law), an established, highly-rated, 30-year law firm needed updated 24-hour building security and access for their three locations in the Philadelphia area, they turned to Jim Stroyek at CAV Solutions with over 25-years of IT experience.

The Needs

SOGT Law had a low-performing security system at each building. When emergency or off-hours access was required by their staff or maintenance personnel, access was limited and slow. This created wasted time, money and unmonitored and unrecorded access to the buildings. SOGT Law needed fast, 24-hour access for emergencies and for their over 50 employees and maintenance staff.

"SOGT Law's system was slow to access the building's doors. With a limit of three doors on a panel adding another door would mean adding another panel. The system also took a long time to load. It was as if each had their own slow server and it was not cloud based. There was no 'app' for the mobile," explains Stroyek.

The Solution

"When Honeywell's MAXPRO Cloud based system came along, it was a shoe-in for easy access control and proven security for our client," Stroyek continues. "Each employee and maintenance staff at the law firm now has a key-fob that can restrict or grant access to some of the buildings' nine entrances, 24/7. Building access during normal business hours is programmed for opening and closing and monitored by the office manager."

"We have been using Honeywell for quite some time in other applications and we're pleased with their products. We did not believe it necessary to seek out the competition as Honeywell's MAXPRO Cloud fits all our requirements. We find the MAXPRO easy to use and especially like the fast speed, user-friendly app, immediate scheduling and restricting door access," explains Charles W. Ormsby, Jr., Managing Member of SOGT Law. "The managers of each building can lock the doors remotely if the building is closed early for some reason or on holidays. In a critical emergency, MAXPRO Cloud can lock down all the building's doors with a push of the button, denying entry to anyone even with an authorized fob. Employees who are on a flex schedule, have easy access provided to them with MAXPRO and are monitored and secured with their key fob.".

The Benefits

"There is nothing comparable to MAXPRO Cloud to my knowledge...set up and installation is easy and the mobile APP is more than user-friendly, concludes Stroyek. "Our client can add security cameras and other accessories in the future. We can also add other new features or updates remotely, saving time and money for us and our client."
